1. Most doctors believe that exercise is good for you. Do you agree?
2. How good are you in math?
3. Wouldn't it be great if Congress banned all scientific research using animals?
4. Rate the extent to which you are satisfied with you supervisor's technical knowledge and interpersonal skills.
5. To what degree does a candidate's vacillation on tough issues influence your vote?
6. Did you vote in the last election?
7. How much of the storage space in your home do you and your spouse use?
8. Do you believe that the Supreme Court should allow the murder of innocent unborn babies?
9. How do you work it out when you want one thing and your spouse wants another and you both feel very strongly about it?
10. If, sometimes in the next three months, you were to be approached by an apparently able-bodied, healthy-looking street-person (that is, someone, whether man or woman, who appears to have no permanent or temporary residence or visible means of support such as a job, government aid, or family support) while having spare change, not immediately reserved for any specific expenditure, available, how likely are you to give the street-person some change?
